Question #1

Source

Section 5.3

Request

In Clause 5.3 of the RFP, it states that a team bidding for the design build services for the Project may be disqualified if the Environmental Services team members were to become part of the design build team. This potential conflict is understood and we would not anticipate to have members of the Environmental Services team join a design build team; however, it is not clear about provision of other services to a design build contractor. As a multi-disciplinary firm we have other services, in particular engineering design, to offer a design build contractor. Please confirm that success of our Environmental Services team on the current subject mandate would not preclude our firm from joining a design build contractor to provide other services with an entirely different mix of team members. If there is a concern about the potential sharing of information between the two separate teams, our firm can add additional security measures to protect against this.

Response

The District of Kitimat anticipates that the role of Environmental Services consultant will be ongoing during the Competitive Selection Process for the Design-Build Contractor. It is therefore expected that the successful Proponent to this Request for Proposals will not be eligible to compete for Design-Build Services.

All other terms and conditions of the Request for Proposals for Environmental Services remain unchanged.
