RE: Changes to density for Civeo Camp Services

Dear Sirs/Madam's

I am strongly opposed to letting Civeo Camp Services increase their usage density using the skid mounted camp units on their property at 100 Loganberry Street in Kitimat, BC.

When said property was up for review to be purchased the concept of a nice West Coast themed Lodge was presented to the residents of Strawberry Meadows. It included a beautiful peaked entrance with a nice architecture design. There was beautiful landscaping with trees and grass. Majority of the area's residents felt fairly comfortable with accepting the proposal as it was aesthetically pleasing.

Fast forward to now. There is no beautiful building and no landscaping whatsoever. The only thing I can compare this property to would be some kind jail, just missing the barbed wire fence and guard dogs. Residents protested allowing Civeo to now use their ugly blue and white trailers to house people at the site and were given a pathetic compromise in making Civeo change the colour of the fronts of these trailers in order to “fit in”. Now Civeo wants to increase the density and bring in more of these ugly units. I say NO, NO and NO!

This situation is like a horrible “As Seen on TV” ad, you thought you were getting something great and instead, it’s just garbage. If Civeo Camp Services wants to bring more people in to make more money, they can stick to their original plan and build what was “sold” to the residence of Strawberry Meadows in the first place.

Yours truly,
